PAUL'S
Patent Columbian Oil.

In respect to which the Proprietor observes:—

"THE great sales of the Columbian Oil, since it has been brought before the public, prove its intrinsic value, and is a pleasing foreboding of what we have to expect from its more extensive circulation.

Many interesting certificates might be furnished, testifying to the great value of the Columbian Oil, but we have preferred giving but few, wishing to rest more on the merits of the medicine, than on the effects produced by certificates from a source however respectable.

The following are among the complaints in which the Columbian Oil has been found very efficacious, viz. rheumatism, consumption, gout, pains in any part of the body, but more particularly of the back and breast; asthma, phthisic, influenza, colds, coughs, whooping coughs, diseases of the eye and eye lids, toothache, ear ache, and deafness, cholic, cramps, external and internal bruises, sprains and flesh wounds, old sores, ulcers, felons, scalds, burns, mumps, dysentery or flux, croop, quinzy, diarhœa or lax, summer complaint of children, indigestion, loss of appetite, nervous debility, piles, mercurial diseases, especially in those cases where the system has been charged with mercury for some considerable time, and in those excruciating pains subsequent to its too great use and exposure. Herpes, or diseases of the skin, such as ring worms, tetters, scald head, &c. stiffness of joints and limbs, palsy, ague and fever, cholera morbus, gravel, gleetes, obstructed urine, scurvy, and in almost all cases of a general or local nature.

We are aware that in recommending a medicine in so many diseases, the public, especially those who have not used the Oil, may be induced to question its virtues, but a disposition of this nature will soon be dissipated, when they are informed that a great proportion of the diseases are owing to the same general cause.—And in those cases where the diseases differ materially in their nature, the effects produced are nearly the same, although not on the same principle.

A supply of the above just received and for sale by RICHARD H. LITLE, Druggist, King street.

ON HAND,

Best Spanish Segars, and prime chewing Tobacco.

A LADY WITH DEATHS HEAD.

An end is put to the enigma which has so long excited public curiosity. The young lady with Deaths Head is distinguished forever, but before we relate the happy and singular denouement of this most extraordinary adventure, we shall describe a few of the persons who aspired to the honor of her hand. They calculate among her lovers 547 reformed Rakes, and 155 ruined Gamsters. She received twenty five or thirty letters from Belgium, not post paid, written by certain well known characters, who said they never would revolt, though she should prove to be the most hideous object in the world. They were disposed to flatter, caress and wed the plague itself, so they could procure abundance of gold. All their letters remained unanswered, but the generous girl ordered her servant to return thanks to a few poor devils who had solicited her hand in a gallant style. We were permitted to take a copy of the following.

"Miss, Report has doubtless painted youfess handsome than you are, at least none will refuse to admit that your physiognomy is expressive. I should have had the honor of presenting myself before you, and of declaring my passion, had not pitiless creditors detained me in the Conciergerie. I must beg you will have the goodness to pay me a visit to receive the proposition I am so anxious to make. Though you may have shewn a little of the coquet, in order to set yourself off to the best advantage, that is not the fault of nature, consequently, it can make no difference in my intentions—No aspect can be more hideous in the eyes of a prisoner, than his prison. Bring me liberty, and you will appear charming indeed! If you should favor me with a visit, you will see a young man, 25 years of age, who has, among other advantages, that of a tolerable person, with a mind proper to meet worldly success. He has, moreover, the honor to declare to you his most ardent vows.

FOLLEVILLE."

"P. S.—Be so good as to request the gaoler of the Conciergerie to lend his parlour for our interview."

The mind of the young lady did not tend to a union in pursuance of the above invitation, but her heart was not insensible. She desired to find in France a husband to answer one she had drawn in her mind. In the brilliant society she attended constantly in a mask of wax, she distinguished a young man of noble and interesting countenance, whose mind had been well cultivated. He had a fortune which placed him above interested views. The young man on his part was charmed with the graces and delicate sentiments which the young lady with invisible features displayed in her conversation. In short, he declared, that all his happiness depended on a union. She did not deny the impression he had made on her heart, nor conceal the pleasure she would feel in acceding to his proposal, but she expressed to him at the same time the dread that he would repent on beholding her face, which she described to be that of death in its most terrific form. She urged him beware of rashness, and consider well whether he could bear the wretched disappointment he might incur.

"Well, well!" said the young man, in a tone of penetration, "accept my hand, and never unmask to any but the eyes of your husband." "I consent," replied she, "but remember, I shall not survive the appearance of affright, and disgust, and perhaps contempt, you may feel after marriage." "I will not shrink from the proof; it is your heart, and not your figure I love." "In eight days," said the lady, "you shall be satisfied." They prepared for the marriage, and, notwithstanding the refusal of the generous young man to accept a million in bank bills, she settled all her property on him.—"If you have not courage enough to suffer," said she, "for your companion, I shall, at least, be consoled by the reflection that I have enriched him I love, and he will perhaps drop a tear to my memory." Returning from the altar she threw herself on her knees before her spouse, and placed her hand upon her mask—What a situation for the husband. His heart palpitated; his face turned pale; the mask fell; he beheld an angel of beauty! "You have not deserved deformity, you merit the love of beauty.'

The happy couple left Paris the day before yesterday for Livonia, where the immense property of the lady is situate. There will be no more talk at Paris respecting the lady with Death's Head.

Gazette de France Jan.

ELEGANT EXTRACTS.

(Taking up the writings of Ames, a few evenings since, we were forcibly struck with the pertinency of some of his remarks, to the present state of political affairs.)

SLUGGISHNESS OF FEDERALISTS.

"The federalist rises like the sluggard from his bed, at the cry of fire, hoping that a little more water, will quench it, and that he may then return to sleep undisturbed. It is not easy, perhaps it is not possible, to make the citizens political soldiers, to persuade them to sleep on their arms, ready at the beat of drum, to repel the assaults, of the Jacobins, on law and liberty. It will sink their estimation of the value of civil liberty, to know that it gives joy, gives safety, honour, gives every thing but sleep. They will be apt, in obedience to the suggestions of spleen and weariness, to say, that the single thing it denies, is worth more than the million it bestows, and joyfully to embrace a practical condition, which would somewat abate the pretention of each individual to be a sovereign, and require a less painful effort to maintain it."

DANGER OF SELF-SECURITY.

"With all their undoubted titles to contempt, are the jacobins to be despised.—Individually, it may be thought great, though great numbers are rather to be pitied, but, collectively, they are formidable, and a party is never more to be feared, than when it is despised. When they are let alone to undermine the pillars of the public order; then it happens, as at the present moment, that they bestir themselves, to get jacobins elected into the general court; and the friends of government despising their foes, sleep in a dangerous security."

FACTION.

"If we allow ourselves to hope any respite from the assaults of factious men, it is by animating the zeal of the friends of virtue and government, and persuading them to come forth, and to speak out, and thus we shall discourage and disarm the party; their affected moderation must not rob the cause of half its support. It is indeed evident, that the spirit of the friends of order is at all times weak, excepting only, when the danger is so near and obvious, as to rouse an uncommon exertion. A correct view of the character of jacobins, if once clearly taken, and profoundly impressed upon the public, would keep those well grounded apprehensions constantly awake, which in effect, are the guardians of our political safety."

JACOBIISM.

"The cold, thinking leaders of jacobinsm, whose "black blood runs temperately bad," desire no more confusion, than just enough to answer their own ends; their ambition would naturally desire to preserve the powers of government to usurp them, and their rapacity would spare the wealth of the state to plunder it. A fresh set would indeed, succeed, as formerly in France, and rob the first despoilers, till the state, successively a prey, would be reduced to beggary and ruin."

DEMOCRATS.

"They manifest a strange heat in the heart, but no light in the brain, unless it be a feeble light, whose rays are gathered in the lens of philosophy, to kindle every thing in the State, that is combustible, into a blaze. A statesman of this sect will poise himself in his chair like an alchymist, in his laboratory, pale with study, his fingers sooty with experiment, eager to make fuel of every thing that is precious, and sanguinely expecting, that he shall extract every thing precious from the cinders & dross that must be thrown away."

NO PARTY MEN.

"Some very vain and some weak men, and some very great hypocrites, pretend to be of no party; while they arrogate to themselves, a discernment, superiour to both parties; they affect so be neutral and undecided between them. They claim the title of the truest patriots, and to love their country with the ardour of passion, yet they inconsistently condemn the violence of both parties, and expect to have both believe that the fire of their zeal subsists pure and unexpended in the frost of moderation. Such men are often flattered as federalists, more often used as democrats, but always held in a contempt that is never more hearty than when it is discreetly suppressed."

PUBLIC VIRTUE.

"The Jacobins consider all virtue as a thing not wanted for their own use; but as a false jewel, to be disposed of to the best customers. Of all men I have ever known they have the worst opinion of human nature. An honest discharge of duty in any station, is a thing incredible, because with them, it is incomprehensible. Accordingly they begin with accusations and calumnies of the foulest sort, and call upon the federalists to shew that they are not true, as though the burden of proof did not rest on the accusers, but the accused."

A brief account of a melancholy event, which lately occurred at Rochester Bridge, on the River Meadway, England.

On Friday the 15th of Sept. 1816, Thomas, son of the late Mr. Gilbert, of Catham, having attained his 21st. year, a party was formed to enjoy the pleasure of a fine afternoon in a water excursion; it consisted of a gentleman, his wife and child, and twelve other young persons, from sixteen to 21 years of age.

The party walked to Rochester about three o'clock, and took the water above the bridge, from whence they proceeded up the river, and went as far as Halling, where they passed the afternoon, in the most social and harmless hilarity; little anticipating the fatal doom which so speedily awaited them; and after taking tea re-entered their boat, in order to return. On leaving Halling, they passed away the time, and amused themselves by singing hyms, as the boat glided down the stream. On approaching Rochester Bridge, many persons were arrested in their progress, and stopped to listen to the joyous harmony of the happy party; rendered more melodious by the serenity of the evening. It was particularly remarked, that the hymn they were singing, as they approached the fatal spot was that interesting piece which concludes with the following verse:

"The hour is near, consig'd to death,
I own the just decree,
Saviour! with my last parting breath,
I'll cry, remember me."

This was their theme when they approached the bridge. The boat shot under the arch with the velocity of lightning, the tide being about half ebb, at which time it dashed through the arches of the bridge with immense force, and the depth about 4 feet.

In a moment a sudden crash was heard, and one general heart piercing shrick of agony announced to the trembling passengers above the dreadful work of dissolution. A beam at that time about a foot under water, against which the boat had struck, was the cause of the accident. On looking over the balustrades, nothing was seen but the boat driving over the boiling surges, with its keel upwards, and a little dog which was fastened to it by a string. Nothing was heard but the roaring of the waters. Thus, in a moment, was engulphed fifteen persons, who, in the innocent enjoyment of that pleasure which youth, health, and religion bestows, were suddenly consigned to a watery grave. Not one was saved; every soul instantaneously perished.

From the Vermont Intelligencer.

When I see a lad of sixteen, spending his time in hearing and relating every idle tale that is told, running to taverns and stores, taking the lead in conversation, making bold assertions, giving his opinion of men he never saw, and of things of which he is totally ignorant; clamoring against well regulated communities, setting the laws at defiance—insulting his superiors, captious among his equals, and abusive to his inferiors—"Thinks I to myself," my lad, you have too much sail, and unless you make a short tack, you will go by the beam, for there are breakers ahead. Now, my good fellow, I will just give you a little bit of advice—Instead of listening to idle tales, read useful books, such as geography and history, and above all others, your bible, that you may treasure up useful knowledge. Instead of loitering at taverns and stores, work at whatever your business may be, with diligence and assiduity; whether agricultural or mechanical; and be economical as well as industrious. In conversation give place to those whose experience may instruct, and whose wisdom may enlighten. Always be more ready to hear than to speak. Never give an opinion of men or things hastily, speak evil of no man. Reverence the laws. Treat your superiors respectfully, your equals courteously, and your inferiors tenderly. By such a course you will gain the esteem of the virtuous, and the respect of even the vicious.

Left there ship Goelet, Johnson, for Savannah in 6 days; Montgomery destination unknown; brig Fair American, Stanwood, Boston 8 days; Huron, Matthews, Baltimore, do.; sch. Hibernia, Pearce, Wilmington, N. C. in 26; Galen, Saltar, Portsmouth, 65 days; Peruvian, Smith, uncertain; Hercules, Gardner, Baltimore, do.; The T. O. experienced a succession of heavy gales the whole passage. March 17, lat. 33, 4, long. 73, 30, spoke schnr. Nassau, Mitchell, from New Providence for New-York, having on board the crew of the schooner Eugene, of Baltimore, cast away on the Keys. 25th, lat. 36, 54, lon. 73, schooner Manlios, from Baltimore, blowing fresh could not learn where bound.

On the 28th February the Buenos Ayrean brig Patriota, com. Taylor, made his appearance before the Moro of St. Lado, in company with four small schnrs. under the same flag—the same day he sent in a despatch to the governor, demanding the men who were taken some time ago in a small schooner under the same flag that had captured the slave vessel, stating that if they were not released, and sent out immedately, he would hang as many Spaniards then in his possession and in sight of the Moro. The governor positively refused to give one up, and had them as well as could be ascertained marched to Havanna. They were in prison when the demand was made. On the 1st March, the brig Gassella, captain Pickle, of Philadelphia from Barcelona to St. Jago, was boarded off the Moro by the Patriota and permitted to proceed, and a few hours after was boarded by one of the schs. (formerly the Yeazer of N. Y.) capt. Petit, the supercargo of the brig being a Spaniard, was taken on board the schr. a rope put round his neck and set taught. They then threatened to hang him if he did not confess the property to be Spanish—when in the act of hauling him up he confessed it was. The brig was then taken possession of by the brig Patriota. The supercargo sent a letter on shore to Mr. Cape-Major, stating his situation, and to effect a ransom if possible. Mr. Leleg left the Moro the next morning for the purpose. On his way he was called alongside the schr. that captured the brig, stripped and abused, and threatened to be run through if he concealed a single paper He was then permitted to go on board the brig Patriota, where he was treated politely. After stating to Commodore Taylor the treatment he had received on board the schooner, the com. sent for captain Petit, and threatened to drive him off the station if he heard of any more such treatment. Mr. Leleg effected a ransom of 12,000 dollars for the cargo, and 3000 for the supercargo. Captain Thomas being at the Moro, ready for sea, they put the money on board, which he counted to the commodore in doubloons. They had taken out some boxes of swords which they would not give up. The brig was then permitted to make sail, and arrived at the Moro two hours after. The fleet had an American schooner in company from New-York, bound to St. Jago, loaded with provisions. The commodore informed he intended to take out some flour, &c. and pay them market prices, 28 dollars per bbl. From what I could learn from the commodore, he intended to lay off the Moro 5 days longer; and if the men were not sent out, he would hang as many Spaniards, and then go into the Gulph of Mexico: if he goes off and leaves the schrs. there will be no safety for any vessel on that coast. Passengers in the T. O. Mrs. Wanton and two children.

March 29.

Brig Octavus, Chandler, 28 days from Point Petre, (Guad.) sugars, Wm. Patterson & sons. Left ship America, for Alexandria last of March; schooner Ann Maria, of Petersburg, bound to leeward; ship Angelica, and another New-York ship discharging & storing their cargoes flour; and a number of others, belonging to Boston, Rhode Island, &c. Two Norfolk schooners with flour, sailed the day before to leeward for a market. A French ship with flour from Havre de Grace, arrived the day before—and another to the same concern momently expected. Flour 7 dollars a 17 1-2 curreney.

New-York, March 27.

Arrived schooner Nassau, Hitchcock, of Bridgeport, 19 days from Nassau, N. P. Arrived at Nassau, on the 16th Feb. in distress, schr. Experiment, Bragdon, of and from Portland, bound to New-York, driven off the coast by bad weather; condemned as unfit for sea. On the 17th, the captain and crew of the sch. Eugenia, Daniels, of Baltimore, from Cape Henry, in ballast, bound to Baltimore, cast away on Maguano Reef; vessel totally lost. On the 26th, the captain and crew of the sloop Frances Mary, Jennings, of New-York, from Savannah, bound to New-Orleans, wrecked on Stranger's Key Abaco on the 12th; part of the cargo saved; vessel lost. On the 27th, brig Little Frank, Moore, from St. Mary's for Martinique, with timber and lumber, in distress, having sprung aleak; unloading by permission. The sch. Ocean, Kelsa, of Damariscotta, from Havre de Grace for Boston, foundered at sea, after a succession of gales, on the night of the 25th of February, in lat. 26, 30, long. 60; the master & crew quit her in the boat, and arrived at Nassau on the 2d March. The British ship Thomas, Plummer, Williams, from Anatto Bay, Jamaica, for London, was lost on the 24th February, on the east side of Aikland's Island, Bahamas. The vessel and cargo of sugar lost: the crew arrived at Crooked Island. The British brig Mary Carson, Gibson, from New Orleans, bound to Nassau, with a cargo of flour, was cast away in a gale of wind, near Mariett, Cuba, on the night of the 6th Feb. passengers and crew all safe landed; cargo nearly all lost. Passengers in the Nassau, Captains Kelsa, late of sch. Experiment, Messrs. Isaacl Kaman, W. B. Brooks, R. W. Beach, A. Fowler, A. Conklin, Master Jennings, and 7 seamen from sundry stranded vessels. It has lately been discovered, that the act of parliament which permitted foreign vessels to come in ballast and take salt from the Bahamas, has been expired two years. Yet vessels are allowed to enter under the free port act. The king and colony duty is 28 6d sterling, and the other fees and port charges are the same as British vessels. It is stated in a New Providence paper of the 5th inst. that by a late ordinance of the Portuguese government, the exportation of salt is prohibited from their territories, said to be in consequence of an arrangement made between them and the Spanish government, by which the territories of the latter on the Main are to be exclusively supplied. Spoke, March 17th, lat 33, long 64, sch. Traverse the Ocean, Thomas, from St. Jago for Baltimore. 19th, lat 35, long 74, brig Charles, of Nantucket, on a whaling voyage.

The store of the subscriber was broken open on Tuesday night last by forcing the bar, and breaking a part of the door. Some old and young hyson teas, with a few other articles were taken, about fourteen dollars in small change and a four dollar note of a bank on the Eastern Shore, signed Teackle, President, with a parcel of papers, were taken from the till. There was also taken out of a trunk from amongst about thirty bundles of papers, a bundle containing sundry orders and receipts relative to a particular business, some of which was found near the store next morning. A large right hand glove was left behind, worked on the back with blue, and snaked with crimson silk. The above reward will be given for any information which will lead to a discovery of the perpetrators of the above robbery.
